

aiPlato FERPA Policy

Certain information regarding students is governed by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and other applicable privacy laws. You must not upload or submit any student information to the aiPlato platform unless you have the legal authority to do so.

aiPlato acknowledges that it may be designated as a “school official” with “legitimate educational interests” under FERPA and its implementing regulation 34 CFR 99.33(a). As such, aiPlato agrees to comply fully with FERPA requirements when handling education records.

aiPlato will only access, use, or disclose student data for the purpose of delivering our services as agreed upon with your educational institution. We will not sell, share, or use student data for any other purpose unless:

- Required by law, or
- Authorized in writing by the institution or the eligible student.

Disclosures Without Prior Consent

In accordance with FERPA, aiPlato may disclose education records without prior written consent in specific cases, including:

- To school officials with a legitimate educational interest (e.g., educators or staff using aiPlato on behalf of their institution).
- To authorized government representatives (e.g., U.S. Department of Education, state education departments) in connection with audits, evaluations, or compliance reviews.
- To financial aid personnel, as necessary to determine eligibility, conditions, or enforcement of aid.
- To third-party researchers conducting studies on behalf of your institution to improve instruction, administer aid, or validate assessment tools.
- To accrediting organizations in the performance of their accrediting duties.
- To parents of a dependent student, if the student is a tax-dependent.
- To comply with a judicial order or lawfully issued subpoena.
- To appropriate officials in cases of health or safety emergencies.

Data Use and Privacy Assurance

aiPlato will not change how student data or personally identifiable information is collected, used, or shared under this policy without prior notice and the consent of your institution.

Requests for access or disclosure of education records not covered by a FERPA exception require the written consent of the eligible student (or parent, where applicable).

For any questions related to our FERPA compliance or student privacy practices, please contact:

aiPlato Privacy & Compliance

Email: support@aiplato.ai